President's Corner

As promised in the last President's Corner, I will fill you in about our clean-out adventure in the BCHF basement. We found some hidden treasures and lots of things saved over the years that should never have been saved. I am sure many of us have such things in our houses. Isn't it a good feeling when they are all gone-through, sorted and then disposed of the "treasures" that are no longer useful? Well, that is how we all felt when we were finished with the clean-out. The basement is neat and tidy and much better organized than before. Much thanks to the crew that spent a good part of the day working to get this work completed.

We did find a few treasures. One of them was a box of plaques that were developed by the organization when it was called the Radcliffe Cultural and Historic Foundation.

The purpose of these plaques was to be given to people to hang on their building after they completed an application proving its historical significance.

We can now continue to offer this service. I have posted the application form on our web site for anyone interested in doing the necessary research about their property.

There is also a rather large, heavy metal office desk in good shape in the basement. If anyone can give it a good home, contact us. As I said, it is heavy, so if you want it you must be able to get it out of the basement through the mурhy door.

Hope to see you on Historic Bristol Day.

ANNUAL MEMBERSHIP MEETING

Keep the date open to attend the annual membership meeting on November 15, 7:30 PM. After the brief meeting there will be a presentation by Alan Vogenberg. Artifacts at Grundy Library in September

By Meagan Ratini and Jesse Walker

Artifacts and research from the 2016 archaeological project conducted at the BCHF building will be on display at the Margaret R. Grundy Memorial Library in Bristol Borough throughout the month of September. Conducted over the last year, the archaeology project has included excavations, artifact analysis, historic research, and interpretations of the findings. Volunteers from Bristol Borough public schools, the historic preservation program at Bucks County Community College, and other community members have all contributed to the project. It is one of the first archaeological projects conducted in Bristol Borough. the exhibit will be in The Library's upstairs lobby and will include artifacts, historic maps, and other material from the on-going project.

A Note From Ways & Means

Trust your summer was great! Again, our committee has been busy. We have had another successful Peach Social thanks to chairperson and Vice President of BCHF and W&M committee member, Debbie Pinney. It truly "takes a village" and our committee of event volunteers and other BCHF members who help with supplying the bake goods table to make this annual event possible. Thanks to all! Next year the Peach Social will celebrate its 25th year and was chaired for MANY years by our wonderful Sarah Carter.

. . . Speaking of volunteers - this leads me to a plea for volunteer help for Historic Bristol Day on Sat., October 21st. We are in dire need of volunteers to help set up signage, distribute tables and chairs for us and for the food court and ticket tables. This would include help on the Friday night before HBD, also, and take down after HBD. So, some strong individuals and their sons and nephews would do the trick. Please call the Chairperson of HBD, Mary Gesualdi at: 215 990-2537, if you can help with any part of this.

I need volunteers to help house-sit in Historic Bristol Day. Shifts are usually 2 hours long from 10-4, but any part of that span can be arranged and welcomed. Each home will have an exhibit on display to view. It's a fun time to greet our many visitors that day. Historic Bristol Day is a rain or shine event. Please call me or e-mail me at kbarniskis@juno.com, if you can take a shift.

UPDATE ON TRIPS

As of this writing, one seat remains on our Oct. 4-6 trip to the Hudson River Valley of New York and a waiting list is being taken for those wanting two or more reservations. Details on the trip are included in the "Calendar of Events" on the back page of this GAZETTE.

Space is available on the Wednesday, Nov. 29, bus trip to Philadelphia to view the special exhibit, "Terracotta Warriors of the First Emperor" at the Franklin Institute. Also included in the trip's itinerary is a visit to the Irish Memorial at Penn's Landing and a three-course, sit-down luncheon at Spasso Italian Grill. The all-inclusive cost is $98 for BCHF members and $100 for non-members, which is $11.95 and $9.95 less, resp., than what's being charged by one of the well-known area tour companies.

According to an article about the exhibit, which appeared in the Philadelphia Inquirer on Aug. 3, it will feature ten full-size clay warriors which are more than 20 centuries old from the burial complex of China's First Emperor, Qin Shi Huangdi, who died in 210 B.C. In March of 1974, a group of peasants digging a well in drought-parched Shaanxi Province unearthed fragments of a clay figure, which was the first evidence of what would turn out to be one of the greatest archaeological discoveries of modern times. Near the unexcavated tomb

First Fridays have drawn big crowds. Our last First Friday table for this season will be manned by Ceil Graff and Jan Ruano. Look for BCHF in front of Century Eye. I'm happy to say, "They're back!" Yes, the popular oval Bristol magnets have been reordered and are on sale, along with our newly designed BCHF T-shirts, commemorating our 50th anniversary year. Stop by and purchase raffle tickets for the annual picture that local artist, Joseph Sagolla renders for BCHF each year. The drawing will be conducted at the conclusion of HBD. The lucky winner will be called after it ends. You can drop off the raffle tickets that were mailed to you recently at our table on First Friday. Join the activities along Mill St. this September 1st from 5-8 PM.

We will be represented at Italian Day in September. Look for the BCHF table under the newly expanded wharf and dock complex. We will have an assortment of all our sale items. It's not too early to think about stocking stuffers. Our note cards and postcards of Bristol sites would make a welcome greeting to Bristolian friends and relatives who've moved away. All the postcards could be attractively framed for gift-giving. We even have Christmas postcards and holiday garden flags. Show your support for BCHF with your purchases.

All are welcome to the Ways & Means committee meetings on the 3rd Monday of each month with the exception of December and July. Meetings are held at the BCHF headquarters on Cedar St. at 7 PM. Call Chairperson, Kathy Barniskis at: 215 943-0258 for more information.

of Qin Shi Huangdi lay an extraordinary underground treasure - an entire army of life-size terracotta soldiers and horses, interred for more than 2,000 years. Don't miss out on this, the only East Coast stop of this exciting exhibit which will also include about 170 artifacts from the excavations.

As mentioned above, our trip will include a visit to the Irish Memorial, which is a national monument opened to the public on October 25, 2003, and dedicated to the memory of more than one million innocent men, women and children who perished during the years 1845 to 1850 during the Great Potato Famine in Ireland. It also honors those who left everything behind in the hopes of making a better life for themselves and providing for their families back home in Ireland.

Our lunch at Spasso Italian Grill will consist of a salad, choice of grilled salmon, chicken marsala, or linguini with vegetables, chef's choice of vegetables, dessert sampler, coffee, tea and soft drinks.

Below: Ceil Graff and Nick Rizzo had the kitchen detail, slicing angel food cake and topping it with generous portions of juicy, sliced New Jersey peaches and ice cream.

A variety of homemade goodies, including jalapeno peach chutney and peach jam, lined the Sale Table.

The scholarship awards for the graduating seniors of the class of 2017 were:

A BARKENTINE* WILL VISIT BRISTOL

On Bristol Day, the Gazela, a tall ship built in 1901 and used more than 60 years as a commercial fishing vessel, will be docked at the new wharf in Bristol. The vessel was retired from fishing in 1969 and was purchased by the Philadelphia Maritime Museum

The Gazela was built in Portugal to carry fishermen to the Grand Banks off Newfoundland. Every spring the ship would leave Lisbon carrying 35 dories  (stacked on deck). There were approximately 40 men (fishermen, cooks, mates and a captain). The cargo hold was full of salt which acted as ballast; the salt was used to preserve the fish which could be cod, flounder, halibut, haddock and perch. The Gazela could stow up to 350 tons of salted fish in her hold.

Because the Grand Banks was being depleted of fish, the location for fishing was changed to an area between Baffin Island (Canada) and Greenland. Winds in this area made it more difficult to sail ships without engines. So an engine and a new rudder were installed in 1935.

The Philadelphia Maritime Museum was searching for a historic sailing vessel. It was purchased by a philanthropist in 1971. The Gazela sailed to Philadelphia from Portugal tracing Columbus' route to America.

Life for fishermen was not easy. Typically they were up before dawn and ate breakfast. Then a fisherman would be lowered over the side of the vessel in a dory and be given a small box containing water, bread, fish and cheese, knives, tobacco, whistle and compass. The dory was rowed clear of the ship, sometimes as far as 20 miles in search of fish. If the catch was plentiful, the fisherman would come back to the ship for processing and then go out for a second load. At the end of the day, the recall signal was sounded and the dories returned, were hauled in and stacked for the night. Some fishermen helped the crew process the fish for storing and salting in the hold.

For the winter, the Gazela underwent maintenance. She was re-rigged for the start of the fishing season next May. The original Gazella Primeiro (meaning Gazelle the First) was built in Setubal, Portugal in 1883.

The Gazela serves as a goodwill ambassador from Philadelphia. The ship can be seen sailing the Delaware River. She has participated in festivals with other tall ships. She is used as a training vessel for Naval Sea Cadets and some volunteer programs. The Gazela has appeared in several films.

* Barkentine - a sailing vessel with three or more masts - square-rigged foremast, a fore & aft rigged main mast and mizzen mast.

The phone lines will be open on Saturday, September 16 promptly at 9 AM. Tickets are limited to two per caller. Note that guests must be able to walk unassisted. If the weather does not cooperate for the rain date on Saturday, we will hold the gala in the King George Inn.

The Gala is open to all, however the only advertising to date has been to members via a mailing in August and this edition of the Gazette. We are looking forward to having a great time with good food and music. Hope you can join us.

Archaeology Dig on Historic Bristol Day

By Jesse Walker and Meagan Ratini

On Saturday, October 21, 2017, from 10 am to 4 pm an archaeological dig will be open to the public. The event is being organized by the historic preservation program at Bucks County Community College and volunteers from BCHF. The excavations will be conducted in the grassy yard area around the BCHF headquarters building at 321 Cedar Street in Bristol Borough. During the dig days last fall, volunteers uncovered metal printers' type, glass marbles, ceramic smoking pipes, and fragments of glass, coal, ceramics, and other historic materials. Please stop by during Historic Bristol Day to enjoy the activities and learn about Bristol's past. If you would like to volunteer, contact Jesse Walker at walkerfamily320@verizon.net. Meagan Ratini also teaches archaeology courses at Bucks County Community College. If you're interested in finding out more about those or other historic preservation courses, email her at megan.ratini@bucks.edu
